DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because they refer to claims. Drawings should not refer to claims because claims are subject to modifications and cancelations. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "the," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

4. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it exceeds 150 words.

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

5. The lengthy specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.

6. The specification is objected to because of the following informalities:

The summary section of the specification makes reference to the claims and utilizes claim phraseology.

The specification should not refer to claims because claims are subject to modifications and cancelations.

The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said" should be avoided.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

7. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

8. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-15 are narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational language. The structure that goes to make up the packet control unit or the traffic management system must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative system or unit.

Regarding claim 1, line 17. The recitation of "including a transmission device adapted to send respective packets onto a packet routing link to a succeeding target packet control unit on the basis of a respective routing decision in accordance with a predetermined packet routing method used in said packet switched control network for the controlling of said packet traffic; a reception device adapted to receive packets from other packet control units of said packet switched control network and at least one object arrival information indicating the of at least object at one of said path points; and a synchronization device adapted to cause the sending of a packet corresponding to said at least one object to packet control unit corresponding to a path point at which said at least one object arrival was detected by an associated traffic information unit" is not comprehensible. It is not clear which element or step of the claimed invention includes the limitation stated above. Similar issue occurs in claims 2 and 3.

Regarding claim 11, line 2. "The object traffic formed" lacks antecedent basis. Line 3, "a plurality of objects moving along"; it is not clear along what the plurality of objects are moving along. Line 13, it is not clear along what the plurality of packets are being routed along. Line 14, it is not clear what the plurality of packet routing links are controlled by. Similar issues occur in claim 15.

Claims 4-10 and 12-14 are rejected because they depend on rejected claims.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO 892.
